Morning Giggle

My ten-year-old son informed me that part of his tooth had come out. We checked and, sure enough, a piece had broken off.

Trying to lighten the moment, I asked my husband, "What do you suppose the tooth fairy gives for half a tooth?"

"Nothing," he replied, "She wants the tooth, the whole tooth, and nothing but the tooth."

The Rotary Club of Camrose Daybreak has been placing Canada flags on lawns in Camrose to celebrate Victoria Day, Canada Day and Labour Day for many years. The flags provide a colourful display and many residents enjoy seeing the flags as they travel throughout the city. You can see some of the over 200 flags we deploy at <http://CamroseDaybreakRotary.org>.

For only $60 you can subscribe to have a flag placed on your lawn in Camrose for the 2024 public holiday periods listed below.

THE MORNING BITE the kitchn

My Italian family's secret makes this pasta taste better than any restaurant

Laura Rege, TheKitchn.com

Drawing from my family's recipe collection, this rendition of penne alla vodka captures the essence of New Jersey Italian American cooking. Here, a blend of simple ingredients — tomatoes, vodka, heavy cream, and Parmesan cheese — makes this creamy red sauce irresistible. But, the secret to the best vodka sauce? Using both whole peeled San Marzano tomatoes and double concentrated tomato paste from a tube. Together, they create a rich, flavorful base unmatched by using either one alone.

Even if you're not a fan of vodka, you'll love this sauce. It subtly enhances the overall dish, bringing out so much flavor in the tomatoes. My adaptation pays homage to the silky sauce that has become a staple in countless Italian restaurants — and now it can be a staple in your home too.

Why you'll love this recipe

My homemade vodka sauce rivals anything you can order from a restaurant. It's perfectly creamy (thanks to plenty of cream!) and has just the right texture, thanks to the whole peeled tomatoes.

It comes together quickly! Prep is minimal and cook time is less than 30 minutes.

Key ingredients in penne alla vodka

With just a few key ingredients, it's important to pick the best.

Tomatoes: Whole peeled tomatoes thicken and extend the sauce so each bite of penne is nicely coated, while the tomato paste adds a rich, fruity depth of flavor that you can't get with whole peeled tomatoes alone.

Vodka: Enhances the natural richness of the tomatoes. Opt for a high-quality vodka — the kind you'd enjoy in a classic martini. Cheaper opinions have a harsher flavor, which will come through in the sauce.

Heavy cream: A generous amount of heavy cream is a must for vodka sauce. It's what gives the sauce balance and its signature rich and velvety texture, so don't skimp here.

Penne: Its short shape and ridges help the sauce cling to the pasta. Rigatoni is a great option if you don't have penne.

Parmesan: Stir in freshly grated Parmesan just before serving to add depth and enhance the creaminess of the sauce. For the best flavor, grate your own instead of buying the pre-grated kind, which is never as nutty and flavorful.

Penne alla Vodka (Serves 4 to 6)

2 ounces Parmesan cheese (about 1/2 cup store-bought grated), plus more for serving, if desired
1 medium yellow onion
3 cloves garlic
2 tablespoons olive oil
1/3 cup double concentrated tomato paste (from a tube)

THE MORNING BITE

1/4 teaspoon red pepper flakes, plus more for serving
 1 (28-ounce) can whole peeled tomatoes, preferably San Marzano
 1/2 cup vodka
 3/4 teaspoon kosher salt, plus more as needed
 1 pound dried penne rigate or penne pasta
 4 sprigs fresh basil
 1/2 cup heavy cream
 Freshly ground black pepper

1. Bring a large pot of heavily salted water to a boil over high heat. Meanwhile, finely grate 2 ounces Parmesan cheese (1/2 packed cup), or measure out 1/2 cup store-bought grated. Finely chop 1 medium yellow onion (1 1/2 cups) and 3 garlic cloves. Start cooking the sauce.
2. Heat 2 tablespoons olive oil in a large high-sided skillet over medium-high heat until shimmering. Add the onion and garlic. Cook, stirring occasionally, until just starting to turn golden-brown, about 4 minutes. Add 1/3 cup tomato paste and 1/4 teaspoon red pepper flakes and cook, stirring often, until lightly toasted, about 2 minutes.
3. Add 1 (28-ounce) can whole peeled tomatoes and its juices, 1/2 cup vodka, and 3/4 teaspoon kosher salt. Using a wooden spoon or potato masher, break up the tomatoes into small bits. Bring to a simmer.
4. Reduce the heat to medium-low and simmer until thickened, about 15 minutes. Meanwhile, add 1 pound penne pasta to the boiling water and cook according to the package directions until just al dente, 9 to 11 minutes. Reserve 1 cup of the pasta water, then drain. Meanwhile, pick the leaves from 4 fresh basil sprigs and thinly slice.
5. Scrape the sauce into a blender. Blend until smooth, 30 seconds to 1 minute. Add 1/2 cup heavy cream and pulse until just combined, about 10 (1-second) pulses. (Alternatively, blend the sauce directly in the skillet with an immersion blender, then add the cream and stir until just combined.)
6. Return the sauce to the skillet. Add the pasta, Parmesan, and 1/2 cup of the pasta water. Cook over high heat, tossing constantly, until the penne is coated with sauce, about 4 minutes. Add more pasta water 1 tablespoon at a time as needed if the sauce is too thick.
7. Turn off the heat. Taste and season with more kosher salt and black pepper as needed. Serve topped with the basil, more grated Parmesan cheese, and a few grinds of black pepper or red pepper flakes if desired.

Recipe notes

Sauce variation: If you prefer a chunkier sauce, skip blending and just add the cream and remaining ingredients to the skillet.

Storage: Leftovers can be refrigerated in an airtight container for up to four days.
