Morning Giggle

An applicant was filling out a job application. When he came to the question, "Have you ever been arrested?"

He wrote, "No."

The next question, intended for people who had answered in the affirmative to the previous question, was "Why?"

The applicant answered it anyway: "Never got caught."

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)

It could be easy to overidealize someone you admire. More discernment may be needed.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)

When it comes to getting what you want, avoid underhanded tactics. Honesty is the best policy.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20)

Be selective about the commitments you make or what you agree to take on. Make sure it's right for you.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22)

Avoid making assumptions. Instead, ask questions and leave room for open communication and honest answers.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 22)

Don't feel pressured to give in to the demands of others, particularly if they're behaving in an overbearing way. Do what's right for you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22)

You may be giving yourself more work than necessary by attempting to be everyone's problem-solver. Take time out to rest, play or create.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)

A better balance may be needed between focusing on the future and being in the now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)

Don't let fear, insecurity or desperation drive your decisions. Take a more levelheaded approach.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)

You tend to have strong convictions, but be mindful of imposing them on others or expecting them to think the same way you do.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19)

You can do a lot on your own, but this doesn't always mean you should. Get into the habit of asking for help.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18)

Beware of the need for immediate results, since more time and patience may be needed.

PISCES (Feb. 19 to March 20)

Take care not to overextend yourself, especially when trying to help others. Practice showing up for people without taking on their problems.

THE MORNING BITE ENVIRONMENTAL NUTRITION

Coffee lover? Review these ways to keep it balanced

Heidi McIndoo

Coffee has gone from a morning wake up or a drink to have with dessert to a dessert itself. On its own, coffee has about five calories per serving, as well as no fat or sugar. But between sugary, flavored syrups, whipped cream, sweetened foams and other toppings, some coffee drinks are nutritionally comparable to a candy bar.

Enjoying a sweet treat once in a while is fun and can be part of a healthy meal plan. For many, coffee drinks have become a part of daily life, sometimes even multiple times per day. This frequency could lead to excess intake of saturated fat, sugar, and calories.

The biggest concern with drinks like this is the concentration of liquid calories. Calories from drinks are consumed much easier and quicker than calories in foods. In other words, eating a 250-calorie sandwich will take longer than drinking a 250-calorie coffee. There are two problems with that.

First, it's much easier to take in too many calories when you're taking them in quickly. Second, while these drinks may quench your thirst, they don't satisfy your hunger the same way eating food would. As a result, you may go on to eat additional food to feel satiated and end up consuming more calories than you may need.

Helpful hints: Review these suggestions for your next coffee shop stop.

Downsize. Choose the smallest size to minimize your intake of added sugar and saturated fat, but still get that flavor you are craving.

Enjoy certain drinks in moderation. For your caffeine boost on most days, choose basic coffees like black, Americano, or Espresso. Treat fancy coffees like a treat, perhaps enjoying just on the weekend.

Cut the fat. To minimize your saturated fat intake, choose reduced fat milk and skip the whip.
