Morning Giggle

Three politicians were in a heated discussion about which was the best liar. As the discussion was getting louder and louder the bartender suggested they have a liars contest. After agreeing to the rules the first says, "I have never told a lie,"

The second indicated that he was not capable of telling a lie.

The third won the prize as he assured the bartender that, "The other two had told the exact truth."

Your Horoscope

by Mecca Woods

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)

You may be feeling more sentimental these days. Lean into it. It's a part of what makes you human.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)

There could be a conversation or a meeting today that connects you to a promising or profitable opportunity.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20)

You could receive good news concerning your money or finances, especially if you've been trying to foster improvement or growth in this area.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22)

The confidence you put in yourself will enable you to reach some of your biggest goals.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 22)

Seek experiences that contribute to your spiritual growth. You'll feel a lot happier as a result.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22)

Embracing the power of teamwork and community will help you thrive.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)

A leadership role or some form of career advancement is on the horizon.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)

You're encouraged to expand your worldview or your philosophy on life. Be open to learning something new.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)

Change is never easy, but it is possible. Start with baby steps.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19)

Expect success with a partnership or a collaboration.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18)

If you've been concerned about a wellness issue, today may present an opportunity for you to get a better handle on it.

PISCES (Feb. 19 to March 20)

Be bold and be yourself. Your authenticity will be rewarded.

FOR TODAY'S BIRTHDAY

You're a motivated self-starter. When there's a job to be done, you do it well. You're resilient, courageous and uncompromising. You approach decisions and new opportunities cautiously, preferring to feel things out. However, thanks to how accurate your intuition is, you know that trusting your gut is the key to getting the results that you want. While last year may have been a period of soul-searching, this year provides you with a clear path forward. Go out there and be great!

BIRTHDATE OF: Mindy Kaling, actress/screenwriter; Lionel Messi, professional soccer player; Solange Knowles, singer-songwriter.

With your vote,
Pierre will:

- 🍁 Fight for fairness for Alberta and the West
- 🍁 Hold the Liberal government to account in Ottawa
- 🍁 Build pipelines and unleash our natural resources
- 🍁 Stop the trade chaos from a position of strength
- 🍁 Support our farmers and lawful firearm owners
- 🍁 Stop rural crime and fix our broken justice system
- 🍁 Make life more affordable by fighting inflation and building affordable homes
- 🍁 Restore the Canadian promise

"These are the values I have been fighting for across Canada, and will continue to fight for in east central Alberta. I was born and raised in Alberta. I'm working to earn your support to serve you in Parliament."

Pierre Poilievre

"The people of Battle River—Crowfoot will be represented well by Pierre for the remainder of this Parliamentary session, and I will keep working with our incredible local team to do everything I can to remain the strong voice for you as I support him in the process, and then run again here in Battle River—Crowfoot in the next general election. We will build on the momentum we have gained with a strong, united vision that will restore the Canadian promise."

ALBERTA LAMB PRODUCERS

Since 1972, Alberta sheep producers have strongly supported their provincial organization, started as the Alberta Sheep & Wool Commission and renamed Alberta Lamb Producers (ALP) in 2009. Presently, Alberta has a thriving sheep industry producing quality lamb with over 1550 producers and ranks third in Canadian sheep and lamb inventories (134 000 head).

ALP proudly works for every producer in our province to enhance advocacy, education, communication, research, and community-building for a stronger sheep industry. The sheep industry can rely on ALP to provide:

- Valued communications through N’ewesletter, N’ewesline, SheepCentral Alberta (YouTube), Facebook and www.ablamb.ca
- Access to free educational resources, like the ALP management modules, that cover everything from health to feeding; predation to business to help develop more efficient and productive operations.
- A hub for industry information, contacts, and resources.
- Advocacy at every level of government and industry to promote industry interests and representation.
- Collaboration with government and researchers to work towards solutions to issues impacting the sheep industry, including the development of practical management tools. Leveraging of industry funds typically means three dollars or more of external funding for every producer check-off dollar received – a highly leveraged return on producer investment.

Alberta on the Plate showcases the incredible bounty that is grown and produced across our beautiful province. Throughout the year, we celebrate and share the Alberta food story by introducing you to the people and businesses that grow, raise, create, and support the agri-food industry in Alberta. Every August during Alberta Local Food Week, Alberta on the Plate hosts a ten-day, province-wide dine around festival. Get more info at:

THE MORNING BITE the kitchn

This classic recipe for light, fluffy angel food cake yields foolproof results every time

Kate Wood and Jan Veldez, TheKitchn.com

Angel food is the sweet, sky-high cake that dessert dreams are made of. It's an adaptable dessert that can be elevated in a number of ways — served with fruit, topped with whipped cream, or flavored with coffee, cocoa, or citrus zest.

A basic angel food cake needs little more than egg whites, sugar, and flour, but the way those ingredients are combined can make or break the cake.

The most important step to nail is the formation of an egg white foam, which gives the cake its height and fluffiness. If you've ever whipped egg whites or made a meringue, you've been well on your way to creating an angel food cake. Proteins in egg whites unfold and reorganize during the whipping process, developing a formation that can be six to eight times greater than its original volume. A well-prepared, stable foam can be used to aerate a number of foods, including angel food cake.

For a trusty classic recipe, look no further than our angel food cake, which will provide you with all the flavor and twice the fluff that your after-dinner appetite has been waiting for.

Why you'll love it

It's the perfect balance of sweetness and airy texture. Every respectable angel food cake requires two things: height and flavor. Once you understand the basic science behind the classic cake, it's easy to strike the perfect balance of sweetness and airy texture.

The recipe is foolproof. Thanks to a lot of research and several rounds of testing, our recipe boasts the correct ratio of ingredients and the proper technique and procedure, ensuring your angel food cake is a home run every time.

Key ingredients in angel food cake

Egg whites: Room-temperature, yolk-free egg whites will produce the best outcome. Any trace of fat or grease can inhibit foam formation, so be sure no yolks sneak in! We prefer to separate the eggs while they're cold, then allow the whites to come to room temperature on their own.

Sugar: Two types of sugar are used for this recipe, as they serve different purposes. The granulated sugar, which you'll add while whipping the egg whites, helps stabilize the foam and give the cake its structure. Powdered sugar is added in later for additional airy sweetness, tenderization, and flavor.

Cake flour: We rely on cake flour to anchor the cake and keep the batter tender (you can also try a DIY cake flour substitute if you're out). For best results, the cake flour should be sifted prior to being folded into the foam to prevent it from collapsing.

Flavoring: Vanilla extract and almond extract add a touch of flavor.

Cream of tartar: This is added for foam stability.

The best pan for angel food cake

A tube pan is preferred for larger angel food cakes, as its center tube provides additional support for the cake to grow on as it bakes. After baking, angel food cakes require a lengthy rest upside-down in order to strengthen their lofty structure, and the little feet around a tube pan's upper lip help support the inverted pan as it cools. We had the best results using a regular (not nonstick) light-colored pan.

What to avoid: Although you won't grease the tube pan (the batter clinging to the sides of the pan actually helps it rise), angel food cake will get stuck in elaborate molded Bundt pans, so those are not recommended.

If you don't have a tube pan: You can bake smaller amounts of batter in loaf pans. The cake will still need a brief upside-down cooling, so be sure to not overfill your loaf pans prior to baking.

Flavor variations

Vanilla and almond extracts: A small amount of vanilla and almond extract are added to this recipe, but you can manipulate the amount for additional flavor.

Citrus zest: Fresh citrus zest — like lemon, orange, or lime — can be folded into the foam with the dry ingredients.

THE MORNING BITE the kitchn

Ground spices: You can add a small amount of ground spices like cinnamon, cardamom, cloves, or ginger.

Chocolate: To make a chocolate angel food cake, substitute 1/4 cup unsweetened cocoa powder for an equal amount of cake flour, or add finely grated bittersweet chocolate into the batter before folding in the flour.

Brown sugar: For a more richly flavored cake, consider substituting light brown sugar for the granulated sugar in this recipe.

Ways to serve angel food cake

Angel food cake is best eaten soon after preparation, as it tends to dry out quickly. Because angel food cake is incredibly light, avoid slathering it with heavy buttercreams or ganache, and instead opt for lighter toppings (think, whipped cream or a simple dusting of powdered sugar). If you'd prefer not to eat huge slices of cake on their own, there are some fun ways to dish it up!

Strawberry shortcake: Serve the cake as the base for strawberry shortcakes.

Trifle: Dice the cake and scatter throughout a trifle, under an airy cloud of chantilly cream.

Toppings: Top with a whipped frosting, finish with a dusting of powdered sugar, or drizzle with a simple glaze.

Angel Food Cake (Serves 10 to 12)

12 large egg whites, at room temperature
1 1/2 teaspoons cream of tartar
1/4 teaspoon kosher salt
1 cup granulated sugar
1/2 teaspoon almond extract
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 cup cake flour
1 cup powdered sugar

Equipment

1 (about 10-inch) tube pan with a removable bottom, preferably light colored and not nonstick

1. Heat the oven to 350 F.
2. Beat 12 room temperature large egg whites in a stand mixer fitted with the whisk attachment on low speed until foamy bubbles have formed, about 2 minutes.
3. Add 1 1/2 teaspoons cream of tartar and 1/4 teaspoon kosher salt. Beat on medium-high speed until soft peaks form, 1 to 2 minutes.
4. With the mixer on medium speed, slowly pour in 1 cup granulated sugar and beat until combined, about 30 seconds total.
5. Scrape down the bowl with a flexible spatula. Add 1/2 teaspoon almond extract and 1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract. Beat on medium-high speed until stiff peaks form, 2 to 3 minutes.
6. Turn off the mixer. Sift 1 cup cake flour and 1 cup powdered sugar directly into the bowl. Gently fold them in by hand with the spatula until just combined. (If your mixer doesn't have a lot of room after the egg whites are whipped, transfer them to a larger bowl first before folding in the cake flour and powdered sugar.)
7. Transfer the batter into 1 (about 10-inch) ungreased tube pan with a removable bottom. Gently run a knife through the batter to pop any air bubbles, then smooth out the top.
8. Bake until the top is golden-brown and springs back slightly when you touch it, 40 to 45 minutes.
9. Immediately invert the pan on a wire rack and let the cake cool upside-down in the pan until still a little warm to the touch, about 1 hour.
10. Flip the pan right-side-up. Carefully run a thin knife around the edges of the cake to release it from the sides of the pan. Remove the cake and tube insert from the pan, then use the knife to release the cake from the bottom of the insert as well.
